Until someone or an attorney tells you about it, no one knows about it. It's like you want to keep it a secret. I didn't learn of it until 2007, 16 years after the first time I should have filed. The 4 year limitation should not count.
- 14. Do you have any suggestions for improving the grievance system?
Yes! Allow people an opportunity to be heard no matter when he/she files a grievance. My 1991 attorney should not be allowed to continue practice and should have charges brought against him for what all he did against me!!

Answer to Question 12:

The grievance system is NOT fair. My understanding is that it is set up to assist client consumers. However, the structure of the system favors lawyers over clients. I erroneously assumed that if I simply stated the lawyer's actions that the grievance committee would know what ethical codes the lawyer had violated. Apparently, clients are expected to know the rules of conduct so that they can make a legal argument on their grievance form. It's as if when someone calls the police to report a theft or some other crime, the victim is supposed to know what specific parts of the penal code or other sections of the law have been broken or they don't have a case.

In this way, the system favors lawyers over clients because everyone doesn't have knowledge of the specific code. I was not provided a copy of the code. Nor was I informed that I would need to include specific references to the code of conduct. Honestly, I did not know to refer to the specific code until I received the dismissal letter referring to the code of conduct. After receiving that information, I researched the code and learned that Mr. Peterson did in fact violate the code and the spirit of the preamble as well. Which I will prove later in this document.

I suspect that Mr. Peterson was notified of the dismissal of my grievance. After 7 months of refusing to communicate with me, Mr. Peterson sent a $350 refund check postmarked 4 days after the 3/1/12 State Bar Dismissal letter date. This allowed him an opportunity to silence me by paying me off before I had a chance to re-file or appeal my grievance. This leaves his record clean despite his violating the code of conduct.

The system is also unfair because my aunt was only reimbursed $350. This amount did not compensate her for several certified letters sent to Mr. Peterson and the State Bar, printing and copying costs for correspondence to him and the State Bar including the State Bar Grievance Forms; money and time wasted for multiple trips to Mr. Peterson's office; $50 consultation fee for which I received bad advice; the stress and additional pain and suffering that he caused both me and my aunt. While coming to grips with her terminal illness we had to add the struggles of fighting this additional legal issue. The timing could not have been any worse.

Perhaps the additional money and time wasted is the price I paid for a valuable lesson learned - some (not all) lawyers are not trustworthy, ethical, or law abiding. They can do so precisely because they know the law and how to work around it.

Below is the contents of this was the letter I was preparing to re-file my grievance. I want to submit it now to support my claim that the system was unfair.

The dismissal letter dated March 1, 2012 stated that my grievance against Christopher William Peterson did "not demonstrate professional misconduct" and "has been classified as an Inquiry and has been dismissed." According to the letter, "Lawyers licensed in Texas are governed by the Texas Disciplinary Rules of Professional Conduct, and may only be disciplined when their conduct is in violation of one or more of the disciplinary rules." I would like to this letter as proof that Mr. Peterson has violated Rule 1.01 (Competent and Diligent Representation) and Rule 1.03 (Communication) in Section I (Client-Lawyer Relationship) of the Texas Disciplinary Rules of Professional Conduct. I will list the rules and highlight the areas for which Mr. Peterson has demonstrated misconduct.

Parts (b) and (c) of section I. CLIENT-LAWYER RELATIONSHIP, Rule 1.01 Competent and Diligent Representation states:

(b) In representing a client, a lawyer shall not:

- (1) neglect a legal matter entrusted to the lawyer; or
- (2) frequently fail to carry out completely the obligations that the lawyer owes to a client or clients.

(c) As used in this Rule neglect signifies inattentiveness involving a conscious disregard for the responsibilities owed to a client or clients.

On July 28, 2011, Mr. Peterson signed a contract promising to provide "preparation of simple Will and HIPAA Release" for a fee which I paid him that day. During our meeting on that day, he made a verbal commitment to provide the documents within 2 weeks. Seven months later, he still has not provided the documents as promised and has never contacted me to update me on the status. This is not only a breach of contract but also a failure to communicate.

I made several attempts to contact Mr. Peterson to receive updates on this issue. I left several messages with his receptionist. He never returned my calls so I insisted on scheduling appointments to meet with him. His receptionist would later reschedule or cancel the appointments. I did not find out about the cancellation of some appointments until after I had arrived at his office at the set appointment times. His behavior clearly demonstrates that Mr. Peterson has neglected this legal matter and frequently fail[ed] to carry out completely his obligations by never returning phone calls, never honoring our scheduled appointments, and not providing the legal documents as promised. He has been inattentive and shown complete conscious disregard for his responsibilities by NEVER communicating with me by any means to update me on the status since our initial meeting on July 28, 2011.

In the comments following Rule 1.01, number 6 under "Competent and Diligent Representation" states:

6. Having accepted employment, a lawyer should act with competence, commitment and dedication to the interest of the client and with zeal in advocacy upon the client's behalf. A lawyer should feel a moral or professional obligation to pursue a matter on behalf of a client with reasonable diligence and promptness despite opposition, obstruction or personal inconvenience to the lawyer. A lawyer's workload should be controlled so that each matter can be handled with diligence and competence. As provided in paragraph (a), an incompetent lawyer is subject to discipline.

My aunt already had a Will that "needed" only minor changes. It does not take 7 months to draft an entirely new simple Will let alone make just minor changes to an existing simple Will. By this extreme delay, Mr. Peterson has not shown diligence and promptness in this matter. The only reason we were seeking to make minor changes to my aunt's Will was because Mr. Peterson led me to believe that my aunt's current Will was inadequate because 3 of the beneficiaries are minors. I have since learned that my aunt's current Will is sufficient as written. Also, I have been informed that it is ill-advised to make changes to my aunt's Will at this time due to her declining mental health. By instructing us to make ill-timed, ill-advised, and unnecessary changes to my aunt's Will, Mr. Peterson has not shown competence, commitment, or dedication to the interests of my aunt. His behavior has also violated (b) of Rule 1.03 (Communication) which states: "(b) A lawyer shall explain a matter to the extent reasonably necessary to permit the client to make informed decisions regarding the representation." If I had been reasonably informed by Mr. Peterson, I would never have paid him to revise a Will that didn't need to be revised and in fact should not be revised at this time.

Mr. Peterson's failure to communicate with me has also violated section (a) of Rule 1.03 Communication which states:

(a) A lawyer shall keep a client reasonably informed about the status of a matter and promptly comply with reasonable requests for information.

My phone calls and attempts to schedule appointments with Mr. Peterson during summer 2011 and early fall 2011 were my reasonable requests for information. I also sent Mr. Peterson certified letters in October 2011 and November 2011 requesting a refund due to services not rendered. To date, Mr. Peterson has made no attempt to contact us by any means whatsoever. The only communications I have received from his office were calls by his receptionist to cancel or reschedule appointments. By refusing to return calls and failing to keep scheduled appointments, Mr. Peterson is not keeping me reasonably informed and he is not complying with reasonable requests for information.

Following Rule 1.01, the comments under the heading Neglect states: "7. Perhaps no professional shortcoming is more widely resented than procrastination. A client's interests often can be adversely affected by the passage of time or the change of conditions... Because delay can cause a client needless anxiety and undermine confidence in the lawyer's trustworthiness, there is a duty to communicate reasonably with clients..." My aunt is in poor health which Mr. Peterson was made aware of during our meeting on July 28, 2011. If changes to the Will were truly necessary, the changes needed to be have been done ASAP before her mental health declined or her physical health declined further. To put it bluntly, changes to the Will need be done before the person dies. My aunt has had several close calls over the past year. According to doctors, she qualifies for Hospice services. Technically that means that her health is such that the doctors believe she could have 6 months or less to live. In fact during the summer one doctor thought she had suffered a "terminal incident" and advised me to call family to "make decisions." It is only by God's Grace that my aunt is still alive today because He is the final authority. Mr. Peterson's extreme procrastination could have adversely affected my aunt's interests if she died before having the opportunity to sign a new Will, if in fact a new one was actually needed. I now know that it is not needed or advised.

Mr. Peterson's complete disregard for my aunt and me has caused additional expense and "needless anxiety". His behavior has undermined my confidence in his trustworthiness. I thought of lawyers as the interpreters and guardians of the law. Mr. Peterson has shown me that his knowledge of the law is the tool he uses to legally "steal" my aunt's money. Apparently, as long as he has a signed contract simply promising to provide a service for a fee, he can take her money and never provide the service. As long as the promise to provide the service at some "future" date exists on paper, he can make her wait indefinitely.

I suppose the rationale is that some people may not have enough money to hire another lawyer who knows the law and can "fight fire with fire." Or perhaps the rationale is that people may not have enough energy, time, or money to follow through with the C. A. A. P. or the State Bar formal grievance process. Were it not for me, this would be true in my aunt's case. She is in such poor health that Mr. Peterson could have easily made a quick $400 for simply listening to us explain her situation for a few short minutes and signing a contract. My aunt is 80 years old and pretty much confined to her room in the nursing home. For her, just eating and dressing is a major effort. While she is struggling with issues of death and dying, she does not have the physical or emotional energy to make multiple phone calls, type letters, and do all the legwork to follow-up with C. A. A. P. and State Bar Grievance procedures.

My aunt has given me Power of Attorney and I am fighting this battle for her. However, I wonder how many others have lost money this way? I continue to fight this battle to hopefully avoid this happening to others. Prior to hiring Mr. Peterson, I checked his record on the Texas State Bar website. To date, his record lists "No Public Disciplinary History - Texas". Despite the fact that I have been struggling with this issue since early fall 2011, his record remains clear. If there were any indication that he takes clients' money without providing any services, I never would have hired him.

Answer to question #4: Suggestions for improving the grievance system

(1) Don't notify lawyers of the dismissal until clients have had time to re-file or appeal. Since Mr. Peterson's partial refund check came while I was typing my appeal, I felt I was deprived of my right to complete the grievance process.

(2) Informs clients up front that they will need to list the specific codes in their grievance and offer to provide a copy to them. This still will not be fair to all because it seems like you need a law degree to make a case that will stand but it's the lesser of 2 evils.

I suggest when a grievance is filed against an attorney that the ENTIRE time that attorney represented that person filing the grievance be looked into, not only the incident mentioned. It wouldn't hurt to take the extra step.

I am not an attorney, yet I must file a grievance and would need to talk with the person who is handling my case. I was told to give it 30 days and then call, because 1000's of these are filed, I have no idea why I was dismissed and no one is there that can tell me why.
- 14. Do you have any suggestions for improving the grievance system?
Help people that have been cheated by these attorneys so they can have a fair chance to prove what happened. Communicate with the people who file the grievance.

14. Do you have any suggestions for improving the grievance system?
Yes, but do not have time to present them now.

I feel mistreated. I feel there was an incomplete investigation. There should've been more questions asked of me, and the attorney.
 13. Do you believe the grievance system is fair? YES NO
 - a. If you answered no, why do you think the system is unfair?
That's the way of the system. I'm a proletarian, I don't matter to the system. I've no right, there's no justice for me. This lawyer is part of the system. You'll protect him. This lawyer misrepresented me, and he'll misrepresent others, and the system will continue to protect him.
 14. Do you have any suggestions for improving the grievance system?
Yes, your agency is the watchdog over the attorney here in Texas. It wouldn't surprise me if you all were lawyers, taken a oath to protect your brother attorneys. Maybe if we had a bilateral system, made up of a neutral class of citizens who would be for neither side - would just apply the rules to the facts and situations.

I don't oppose in paying the attorney his fees. But I don't think they should take the 30% because that between the attorney fees + the insurance we are going to be left with nothing and my wife Leoner Nolasco still needs medical attention + care resulting from the accident.
Another reason is that I was lied to because I asked for a copy of the contract in spanish and any paperwork they had on our case in spanish. They told us they were working on it and then at the end they told us we didn't need it.

RE: Disciplinary System Questionnaire

Dear Member of the State Bar of Texas Chief Disciplinary Counsel's Office:

This is in response to my experience with the Texas State Bar ("Bar") Association Grievance Process. I appreciate the opportunity to participate in this feedback process, as substantiated by the form received titled "Disciplinary System Questionnaire" after the letter indicating "no just cause" dated December 1, 2011 and received by me shortly thereafter.

I believe the Bar's reaction to my correspondence will either be received as an unwelcomed criticism, or be encouraged that a member of the public would go to such great lengths to comment on the one's experience, which, hopefully proves as a catalyst for positive change. Only time will tell.

The experience I encountered made me realize that an average member of the public most likely does not have the skills necessary to effectuate a valid claim. This is sad, as access to methods to protect the public's interest should be available to everyone, regardless of educational background. Maybe more would come forward if they did not feel overwhelmed, intimidated, or embarrassed. I wonder if my experience happened for a reason; to report my experience.

I have received the following correspondence from the State Bar from my initial complaint. The final letter (12/1/2011) received stated "no just cause" and "there is no appeal". I firmly believe the process failed the public and my discussion will address how the public's interest, specifically in this matter, was not served.

A table of contents follows to help with the organization of this correspondence.

Purpose of Response

One can ask why I am doing this. If anyone has seen the movie “To Kill a Mockingbird”, Atticus Finch demands the jury to “do your duty”. Regardless of the degree of the act at hand, I believe it is our public obligation to one another to report when a violation occurs. Although the act in my case does not rise to the hideousness as was carried out in the movie, at what point does “do your duty” become irrelevant. I believe the quote of Lawrence D. Bell is something we, as public members, should model our behavior after. He says “show me a man who cannot bother to do little things and I’ll show you a man who cannot be trusted to do big things.” As such, if I were not to act, then who knows what other public members are at risk? I believe most of us are familiar with Edmund Burke’s quote, about good men doing nothing. I would think society would be a better and safer place if we all were more accountable to one another.

A licensed individual should not have the ability to use the court system as a weapon to apply unethical and immoral approaches towards any member of the public. In my case, it’s as if the Licensee slipped the gavel and the rope to himself and applied it at will.

I recently saw on 60 Minutes an interview with the owner of Tesla, Elon Musk, who was working on a space flight technology, known as SpaceX. In the interview he talks about getting into the “space business”. He says “The odds of me coming into the rocket business, not knowing anything about rockets, not having ever built anything, I mean, I would have to be insane if I thought the odds are in my favor” .Scott Pelley, the 60 Minutes correspondent replies, “Why even begin? Elon Musk responds “When something is important enough you do it even if the odds are not in your favor.””

The Bar’s website provides guidance for a licensee on how to handle a grievance in the event the licensee ever encounters a grievance. There is little guidance for the public. One question is what resources are available to the public and most importantly, is there someone to explain this? Please understand; the public is at a huge disadvantage in that the public does not have the training or experience in legal matters to effectively understand the process. My experience seemed to show the Bar was more interested in meeting statistical numbers in demonstrating how “effective” the process is by pushing matters toward dissolution, rather than focusing on the grievance involved. In essence, I became “just a number”. From my experience, I genuinely feel that Mr. Musk’s statement is relevant.

Disciplinary System Questionnaire

I will address each “bullet” on the questionnaire. I have include the copy provided (looks as though was put through the copier in multiple copies as is slanted), along with the three letters of correspondence received from the Bar’s Office of the Chief Disciplinary Counsel. This is included with the exhibits.

- 1) No, I’m not a former client.
- 2) Yes, my grievance was dismissed (although I disagree with this result).
 - a. No, the letter states “there is no appeal”, although this is clearly an appealable outcome.
 - b. Who is BODA? Should BODA review this?
- 3) No, the grievance was somehow dismissed, without any explanation to me as to why it was dismissed and therefore, unjustly, no sanctions or any other punishment.
- 4) Neither, it appears. As far as I know, this was called the “Summary Disposition” panel.
- 5) Unfortunately, I was not granted this opportunity.
- 6) June 2011 through December 2011.
- 7) Civil
- 8) N/A
- 9) N/A
- 10) San Antonio
- 11) Yes
 - a. I believe he is an attorney
 - b. George Smith

12) Although he was available and generally responsive, I seemed to be “bothersome” to him. He would keep asking “Is there anything else I can help you with Mr. Soat”.

13) Absolutely not.

a. The purpose of this letter is to describe my experience.

14) As follows:

- . More transparency, including:
 - ^ A conflict of interest determination;
 - ^ The names of members on selection panels;
 - ^ An explanation of the outcome, including minutes of meetings;
- . Process that changes tie-breaker to the public;
- . Public’s invitation to appeal possibility of sending matter to “summary disposition”;
- . More public education;
- . Elimination of statute for lawyer misconduct;
- . Anything else necessary to protect the public’s trust, including a;
 - ^ Current review of the process to determine if stated objectives need to be revised.

I would like to point out the December 1 letter has a paragraph stating that I “may wish to contact the Client-Attorney Assistance Program (CAAP)”. Further, it states the process and participation is voluntary on both sides. CAAP is so far removed from my matter it comes across as insensitive to include this “canned” paragraph.

Initial Grievance Filed Against the Licensee

In June 2011, I filed a grievance against a licensee (“Licensee”) of the State Bar of Texas based on the Licensee’s acting in an unethical manner. These included, but not limited to:

- 1) Incompetence;
- 2) Failure to communicate properly;
- 3) Neglect.

The licensee responded with several misrepresentations. I do not believe an adequate investigation was carried out. I’m not necessarily saying it was because the investigator was not concerned with my matter, but may have been based on a lack of allocation of resources and the process’s tendency to “push” the matter to disposition. In other words, it seems the simple route is to place the matter as “summary disposition”. I wonder how many matters go further once receiving this classification. It seems this is akin to the “kiss of death”.

Timeliness of Filing

There seems to be some differences of opinion regarding the length of time between the event and the time of filing a grievance. I have inquired as to the legitimacy of this statement. It appears those in practice say the sooner it is filed, the more validity to the claim. I asked Mr. George Smith, Assistant Disciplinary Counsel and his response was that claims can be filed four years from the time of the grievous act. My opinion is that a grievance should not degenerate over time, and the time I took to file in no way should discount the validity of my claim. If actual findings are different, then maybe the Texas State Bar should look into the effectiveness of this time period and, if necessary, change the corresponding rule.

Interactions with those involved in the Investigation

Mr. Smith was my only verbal communication from a member the Texas State Bar during this process. I first was contacted by Mr. Smith on October 16, 2011. He was interested in the piece of my complaint that dealt with the lack of appearance by the Licensee at my summary judgment hearing. He indicated he had been inundated with data from both me and the Licensee. I was not sure what this meant although I wondered if he did look through all of the information. My initial grievance letter ironically was brief, and certainly I thought follow up interviews and other measures of correspondence would be included to allow the Bar the means to obtain more information. Well, after seeing the response from the former Licensee, I now understand “briefness” can be used a means to dismiss matters for lack of sufficient information.

Included in this original information was the summary judgment papers as originally filed, with a hearing date of late April. Mr. Smith asked “did you know the date of the hearing?” and my answer was “no”, assuming he meant ‘did I know about the date and time when, after being re-scheduled, it was finally set. To this I answered correctly. He later pointed me to an email from the Licensee that I should be concerned with. This email contained two statements:

- 1) The summary judgment hearing is set for May 7th
- 2) The request for discovery is in motion.

My initial reaction was, once he discovered that the hearing was not May 7th, Mr. Smith would realize I was never informed of the final date of the summary judgment hearing.

Mr. Smith also commented:

- 1) This is a simple family law matter, and not the complexities of something like on involving a corporate issue.
- 2) This attorney has not had a grievance filed against him before.
- 3) The attorney's livelihood requires consideration.
- 4) There was obviously "work done".

I would like to address these individually.

- 1) This was not a simple family law matter. In fact, when I inquire today with family law attorneys, I am consistently told this, being an interstate child support issue, is one of the most complex matters in family law. Additionally, the Licensee references this in his response, as although incriminating to him, he states how opposing counsel was found after an extensive search for someone competent in interstate matters.
- 2) Although it is said many times that past behavior can be a good barometer of future behavior, I don't think there is any evidence that this is absolute. Certainly someone arrested for a committing a crime should not be absolved of the charge if they can show evidence that "they had not committed that crime in the past". Also, there are many examples in history of someone who has had a "squeaky clean" past somehow shows up in the news for unscrupulous acts.
- 3) This is probably the most difficult to comprehend, on several counts. First, I believe the public understands, as I do, that livelihoods are to be taken into consideration, both the attorney involved and those impacted by the attorney's misconduct. In my case, it has severely crippled my ability to provide in the intended manner for my children. For example I have not been able to provide for them as I had anticipated based on the original agreement. The time that was ordered for me to be with my children has been curtailed. In a way, the Licensee's act's "fundamentally changed the relationship" between my children and me. However, the focus was on the attorney's livelihood. This is a standard the public will find it almost impossible to overcome. That is, if the threshold is to show how a grievance is not going to possibly have a negative impact on the attorney's livelihood, then the public should refrain from participating in the grievance process, since it will most likely never be able to show the refute this standard.
- 4) Other than the Licensee's notes he records and provides as evidence to refute my grievance, there is nothing to indicate the amount of "work" applied to my case. There are no time records, which is normally the manner to show how much "work" is put towards a matter. The Licensee states he did not keep the cases he “reviews” as since these were applicable and indicates he did not find any cases that were applicable. So how does anyone know how much “work” is actually done? This seems to be an open ended statement that allows the Licensee great flexibility without any sort of accountability.

When I inquired as to how the process works, Mr. Smith commented something to the effect that he had dismissal influence. I didn’t quite understand this and at the time I thought there is no way one person can unilaterally control the outcome. After going through the process, I came to realize there was a lot of truth to this representation. Although I appreciate Mr. Smith’s honesty, and believe Mr. Smith is trying to do the job as well as he can and don’t have anything personal with Mr. Smith, I question the process of having one person at this level of authority with the ability to persuade outcomes in this type of unilateral manner. I also wondered how the Licensee’s misrepresentation’s in his response and constant berating of my character had influenced Mr. Smith’s thought process.

Shortly thereafter, I received correspondence from Mr. Smith dated October 19, 2011 indicating my matter was placed on a Summary Disposition Panel docket. At the time, I did not know what this meant. Certainly, my matter did not fall into the category of “early dismissal” as I later found what this actually predestined.

I also realize that by reporting on these interactions, it may be taken personally and, if this makes it way to Mr. Smith while my grievance is active, it may possibly adversely impact any chance I have of obtaining a just result with this most recent filing. My comments are only to encourage full disclosure.

Negligence and Neglect

There were a couple of conversations I had with Mr. Smith who discussed the Bar’s role in these matters and the differentiation between “negligence and neglect”. It seemed even though “negligence” could be proven (aka malpractice), it was necessary to prove “neglect”. I believed the evidence would bear this out if given the opportunity. Should the public have access to legal representation to assist with the grievance process?

Legal Options other than the Grievance Process available to the Public

My experience with the Licensee was truly an abuse of trust. How a statute of limitations can be applied in situations like this is unexplained. An act of an attorney, who is sworn to uphold the public's trust, should not be allowed to hide behind a statute and should be called on it, at any time when the public's trust is violated.

Another concern is the system that is set up to protect the public, but there is no indication as to how the public's trust is truly protected. I wonder how many of those filings get put in the "dissolution bin", or alternatively called "summary disposition". When I read these rules, it is obvious these are written for lawyers by lawyers. How else could anyone explain that in the event of a tie, the ruling favors the Respondent, which, as I understand it, is always the lawyer. If correct, then this provides for a bent in attitude. I wonder what the effect would be if the "tie" went to the public. I would think there would be a higher level of scrutiny on the information and the conduct of the licensee since the legal profession is, in effect, self-monitored. Shouldn't this be a given?

To note, this has taken an extraordinary amount of time, as I see it, more than any non-attorney public person should have to incur. Other observations for consideration include:

- 1) I fall into the realms of most of my public members in that people like me are not attorneys or most don't have the training to develop a like kind skill set. It appears an obvious statement that those in the public are disadvantaged with this lack of skill set, and consideration should be granted on this fact. I have only my experience of the events to rely upon. I grew up and still believe that truth and honesty prevail. Although my faith in the system is truly troubled, believe it or not, I have not totally lost faith. I have experienced a situation where misrepresentations, however brazen, seem to have persuaded those with oversight authority to result in an unjust outcome. It is clear the Licensee used his training and experience to compose a response and paint a picture that was truly disingenuous.
- 2) I find it hard to understand, given today's movement towards more transparency in our government, that this process is done with such secretive processes. I learned more about this as I experienced it, of course, and what is unclear is whether those who are selected on the summary disposition panel must not be conflicted with the parties involved. There was no information to support what should be an integral part of the process and ensure objectivity, that is, a conflict of interest. How does the public have confidence in this process? My reading of the process states that "statistics are maintained". Does the public get to view these statistics? Without seeing these, I would be remiss if there is not a significant number of those that are sent to the dissolution panel do not end up as "no just cause". More SUNSHINE would be welcomed.

- 3) It seems those that volunteer would rather be somewhere else pursuing more “lucrative” endeavors. Also, I understand there are three attorneys and two non-attorneys. I wonder how many non-attorneys have ever had the ability to influence many outcomes.

Filing a Malpractice Suit

Although maybe outside the scope of the questionnaire, I feel information regarding other options I have pursued would be helpful information for the Bar. I looked into suing the Licensee for the malpractice and fraud and am learning his shifty behavior is indirectly protected based, primarily on the economic reality represented to me to pursue this action. In other words, my findings from discussions with attorneys indicated that:

- The action would require a significant amount of money required for production, discovery, depositions, filings, motions, court appearances, etc.
- Significant funds would be needed for experts, both in family law, if an individual that truly understood the matters at hand would testify, and an expert on legal malpractice.
- Attorneys won't sue another attorney who practices in the same area, thus requiring a search outside the San Antonio area;
 - That being stated, there would be significant travel and related distance costs since it would be necessary to find someone from another locale.
- When I mention to attorneys who advertise they participate in pursuing legal malpractice cases and discussed my current situation:
 - (San Antonio attorney) You should go outside of the San Antonio area as you will most likely encounter conflicts since the Licensee is a local attorney, indicating there is an informal “fraternal order”, and viewed as incestuous. Without knowing of those who sat on the committee, it raises the possibility one of the Licensee's “acquaintances” participated in the decision process.
 - (Outside San Antonio attorney) You should look locally, as the cost of pursuing a legal malpractice matter is very expensive, and it would not be economically viable to use an attorney that would have to travel to San Antonio. He went on to explain that the cost would be the attorney being sued would put forth pleadings, production requests, and the like that would generate mounds and mounds of paperwork. (He also suggested the grievance process. When I explained those involved had not looked through the records and it appeared there was a resource issue, he explained this is a perception from the Bar as being “overworked”.)

- Clearly, the Licensee understood these inner-workings. Having the knowledge of the legal system and related processes and minimal chances of being called on an unethical act, it’s as if it’s open season on the defenseless public. The consequence of not acting accordingly would be two-fold, to empower the person who perpetrated the act and bring increased cynicism from the public.

Conclusion

I found the grievance process deficient. I have trust the Bar realizes that doing nothing to prevent or stop unethical behavior is just as bad as the commission of unethical actions.

On a side note, it’s concerning to what extremes this Licensee will go to, given the methods applied during my experience. I can only file this correspondence to safekeeping. The rest is out of my hands. I have done my duty.

Sincerely yours,

Richard D. Soat

Re: S0071125620 Richard Soat - Kevin Wayne Stouwie

Dear Mr. Soat:

Upon completion of its investigation of your grievance, the Chief Disciplinary Counsel has determined that there is no just cause to believe that the above named lawyer has committed professional misconduct.

In accordance with the Texas Rules of Disciplinary Procedure, following this determination by the Chief Disciplinary Counsel your complaint was presented to a Summary Disposition Panel of the District 10 Grievance Committee. The Panel has voted to dismiss the complaint. The Office of Chief Disciplinary Counsel maintains as confidential Disciplinary Proceedings.

Although there is no appeal of the Panel's decision to dismiss, you may wish to contact the Client-Attorney Assistance Program (CAAP), the State Bar's voluntary dispute resolution program. CAAP can attempt to resolve your matter through mediation or other dispute resolution procedures. CAAP is not a continuation of the attorney disciplinary process and participation by both you and the attorney is voluntary. Should you desire to pursue that process, you may contact CAAP at 1-800-932-1900.
